UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
SAN JOSE DIVISION

LAURA ANN GENS,

CASE NO. 13-50106 ASW

DEBTOR,

Date of Hearing: April 10, 2013

Time of Hearing: 2:15 pm

Courtroom of Judge Weissbrodt

DEBTOR'S REPLY MEMORANDUM TO IMPOSE A STAY UNDER §362 (c)(4)(b) AS
TO CREDITOR WELLS FARGO AND THE PROPERTY

I. INTRODUCTION

Wells Fargo continues its pattern of dealing in bad faith. Debtor did not receive Wells Fargo's March 21, 2013 Opposition until April 3, 2013. Multiple times Wells Fargo has failed to serve Debtor with documents. When Wells Fargo mails documents to Debtor it usually takes about ten days. The envelope will be metered on the day it was supposed to be, but the postmarks are a week old. Debtor believed the same pattern was being followed with the Opposition.

There are too many misstatements of the facts in the Opposition, to not respond. Debtor will keep her remarks brief.

1 II. LEGAL ARGUMENTS

2 A. Misstatements in the Opposition Background.

3 The opposition states that Debtor income on the August 2012 Statement of Current
4 Monthly Income was $11,250. In Debtor's Supporting Memorandum at Section II C (4), Debtor
5 explained that due to having the attorney back out of her representation, Debtor had to prepare the 6 documents herself and without background documents that were still at the attorney's office.
7 Errors were made as Debtor explained in her memorandum.

8 The Opposition states that Debtor relied on her family's income in the last bankruptcy.
9 Debtor attorney never filed the Plan in the bankruptcy.
10

11 B. Wells Fargo Claim of $530,000 is More Total Fiction.

12 In the Opposition, Wells Fargo presents for the first time a reinstatement quote for 13 $530,000. No number in the reinstatement quote is supported by any document Wells Fargo was 14 forced to produce in the litigation against Wells Fargo. There are no underlying accounting
15 documents here or in prior produced discovery. What few documents Wells Fargo produces,
16 contradict one another. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is the February 2013 statement from Wells
17 Fargo for the Loan. Under Section 1, it says the entire amount owed is $431,707 (which is 18 disputed). Not $ 530,000. Wells Fargo's own records do not agree.

19 Look at the quote on its face. Escrow shortage of $52,021 ?? There never was an escrow
20 with this loan. Never under World Savings or Wachovia. Where did this come from?

21 Property taxes paid of $61,806? These property taxes have not been paid by Wells Fargo.
22 Debtor can prove it.

23 The monthly payments of $7,515 are wrong. This is an interest only loan. Look at 24 Section 2 in Exhibit A. The monthly interest payment is $3,585.

25 Wells Fargo has artificially inflated all its numbers to try and prove that Debtor's Plan is 26 unconfirmable. This is more of the same bad faith in dealing with Wells Fargo. Debtor needs the 27 protection of the Court against these malicious business practices.
28

1 C. The Decrease in Energy Bills Are A Change From Prior Bankruptcies.

2 Debtor's attorney never got to file a Plan in the prior bankruptcy that would have detailed
3 how her energy costs had started to decline and were going to greatly decrease in the near future.
4 Her prior statement is true. The extent to which the energy costs dropped is now fully realized in
5 the latest utility bills attached to Debtor's memorandum.

6
7 D. The Decrease In Real Estate Taxes Is Due to Some Change in Agricultural 8 Zoning.

9 Wells Fargo contends that the assessed value of the Property has fallen. Debtor entered
10 into a pre-petition contingency arrangement with a company, ProTax Inc., that specializes in 11 lowering real estate taxes. Debtor was informed by ProTax that the lower real estate taxes were 12 the result of a change in the agricultural zoning for part of the Property.

13
14 E. The Cases Cited By Wells Fargo re Artificial Impairment Are Differentiated.

15 Wells Fargo cites the Windsor case to support its position. But the facts are totally 16 different. In Section III of that case, it states that an artificial class of unsecured creditors was 17 created to put the unsecured portion of a bank loan into so as to separate it from other unsecured
18 creditors. That way the other unsecured creditors could affirm the plan without the bank. That 19 seems to be what the court was prohibiting.

20 The citing of the Anaheim case seems even further off-base. There is no mention of 21 artificial impairment in the case.

22 Wells Fargo does not want to accept the good business plan that Debtor has proposed
23 because it does not have the accounting records to back up its claim. Wells Fargo has to act in 24 this malicious, non-business manner.

25
26 F. Debtor's Prior Attempt to Secure an Ex Parte Was In Response to Wells Fargo
27 Legal Maneuvering.

28 Debtor had a TRO in state court granted on strictly state statute causes of action. Wells

1 Fargo avoided the TRO by removing it to federal court based on diversity! Even though Cal-
2 Western is a California Corporation. Even though Wells Fargo is headquarters in San Francisco.
3 Debtor filed a motion to remand which would not be heard until months after Wells Fargo's
4 trustee's sale. So Debtor filed an ex parte application for a TRO which is very difficult to get.
5 Wells Fargo would like Debtor to roll over so it can claim a windfall profit on its fantasy claims.

6 7 III. CONCLUSION

8 Debtor filed this action in good faith. She simply wants a Court to hear her claims against 9 Wells Fargo and save her home.

10 Debtor simply wants an accounting to put this loan back on track. Wells Fargo has 11 proceeded with impunity, in a non-business-like fashion, so that it can cash in on an ill-gotten
12 windfall. Rather than resolve the outstanding issues, Creditor Wells Fargo threatens foreclosure
13 and now has set a Trustee's Sale for April 26, 2013.

14 This Court should grant a enjoining creditor Wells Fargo and their employees, agents, and 15 persons acting with them or on their behalf from selling or otherwise transferring ownership of 16 the Property located at 4141 Old Trace Road, Palo Alto, California.
